TRAILER ALLOWANCE DECIDED

A joint Service committee has come up with regulations prescribing rules for the new trailer allowance authorized by the Career Incentive Act.

The Act provides that Service personnel who transport a house trailer within the continental U. S. for use as a residence and who would otherwise be entitled to transportation of household effects are "entitled to an allowance not to exceed 20 cents per mile, or to the authorized dislocation allowance."

The joint Pentagon committee has ruled that the trailer allowance shall be 20 cents if the Service family has the trailer hauled commercially.

If the Serviceman hauls the trailer himself, the allowance will be 10 cents per mile and the man and his family will draw in addition the usual six cents per mile travel allowance.

Gen. White Remains As Vice CofS To '57

Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott has announced that General Thomas D. White, USAF Vice Chief of Staff, will continue in his present assignment until 30 June 1957.

General White, 53, had been scheduled for retirement on 31 August because of completion of 35 years' commissioned service and five years in permanent grade of major general.

General Nathan F. Twining, USAF Chief of Staff, who has been named for a second two-year tour, originally was scheduled to retire for 35-and-5 in December 1953, but was twice extended on active duty.

Lt. Gen. Howard A. Craig, USAF, will retire 31 June after 35-and-5. He is Commandant of the National War College at Ft. McNair, Washington, D. C.

Maj. Gen. Lucas V. Beau, USAF, head of the Civil Air Patrol, will retire on 31 August 1955.

Here is a rundown on scheduled retirement dates—subject to change—for the Air Force's four-star generals:

Orval R. Cook, July 1957.
Curtis E. LeMay, February 1965
Lauris Norstad, July 1965.
Earle E. Partridge, July 1959.
Edwin W. Rawlings, June 1965.
Otto P. Weyland, July 1959.
Laurence Kuter, July 1962.

Hoover Group Wants More Officers For R&D; Suggests Boost In Basic Research Funds

The Hoover Commission has recommended that the Armed Services take steps to improve military research and development.

More technically-trained officers are needed for the R&D programs, a Commission Task Force has found, and officers assigned to R&D "should serve for longer periods in order that they may become professionally adept."

To make longer service possible, the Commission states, R&D officers "should be given the same preference and promotion as if they were rotated in short-term service."

The Task Force, headed by Dr. Mervin J. Kelly, President of Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., thinks more money should be put into basic research. The level of basic research should "be significantly increased" above its present $20 million annual outlay.

The Commission said all but two of the 15 recommendations made by the Task Force can be effected administratively. The Commission urged that future Presidential appointments of Assistant Secretaries of Defense and those in the three services, who are concerned with R&D, "be made from men of professional training outstanding in the Research and Development field."

Here are other measures which the

Housing, Medical Care, Survivor Benefits Still Pending As Congress Nears Close

The Pentagon's legislative program this week appeared to be in danger of bogging down as Congress headed into the final stretch before adjournment.

With only one major military bill—the Career Incentive Act of 1955—to its credit, the first session of the 84th Congress tentatively is slated to wind up by the end of July.

Dozens of military measures are pending. Chances now seem remote that more than a handful will be considered and approved before the session ends.

Offsetting this is the fact that increased pay already is on the books and improved housing is just ahead. There also is a possibility that action will be taken before the session ends to improve survivors' benefits and dependent medical care.

Here is the way the remaining major measures stack up:

HOUSING—The Military Public Works bill, which contains $255 million to build 17,000 new family quarters, is being whipped into final form in hearings now underway in both the House and Senate Armed Services Committees. It is expected that the measure, with major Pentagon recommendations intact, will be passed and signed by the President this month.

SUB-STANDARD QUARTERS—The proposal to allow Servicemen to pay reduced rentals for substandard homes and pocket the rest of their quarters allowance may be incorporated in the military public works bill. Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson has suggested the move. If the measure is not included in the construction bill, Rep. Charles E. Bennett (D-Fla.) told THE JOURNAL he is "hopeful it will be heard this year."

RAdm. Burke's Appointment Sets Off Shuffle In Top Navy Command; New Vice CNO Seen

A full-scale shuffle looms for the Navy's high command.

Coincidental with the appointment of RAdm. Arleigh A. Burke, USN, to take over as Chief of Naval Operations in August, the President is expected to announce the selection of a new Vice CNO shortly.

The officer appointed to the second-

ADM. CARNEY'S IN THE ARMY—Admiral Robert B. Carney, USN, left, Chief of Naval Operations, was made an honorary member of the Third Army at Ft. McPherson, Ga., during a recent visit as the guest of Lt. Gen. A. R. Boiling, USA, right, Third Army Commanding General. Both officers will be retiring this summer after distinguished careers.

ranking post is likely to be a Naval Aviator. This would be in keeping with Navy custom which prescribes that the Vice CNO shall be a flier if the CNO is a "blackshoe" admiral, as is Admiral Burke.

Admiral Donald B. Duncan, USN, present Vice Chief of Naval Operations, will complete four years in that assignment on 10 August.

His successor may be picked from among Admiral Burke's contemporaries, far down the flag list. Only two four-star officers (Admirals Felix B. Stump and John H. Cassady) are eligible for the post and both would reach statutory retirement age (62) before the end of a four-year term.

Seven three-star aviators (Vice Admirals Matthias B. Gardner, Harold M. Martin, Ralph A. Ofstie, Thomas S. Combs, Alfred M. Pride, Frederick W. McMahon and Austin K. Doyle) also are eligible. They range in age from 57 to 59.

In addition, there are 23 rear admiral aviators of the upper half, presently senior to Admiral Burke, who could be shifted into the Vice CNO assignment, as well as 35 who are below the CNO-Designate's position on the list.

Meanwhile, speculation has arisen that a number of other changes will be forthcoming in the Navy high command. Two of the Deputy CNO's, VAdm. James L. Holloway, DCNO for Personnel, and VAdm. Roscoe F. Good, DCNO for Logistics, are completing their third year in those posts and may be replaced.

Some fleet changes also may be in the making. President Eisenhower has nominated RAdm. Charles Wellborn, Jr., USN, (Continued on Back Page)

Navy Picks 1,449 For Regular Ranks

Augmentation boards have chosen 1,449 Reserve and Temporary officers for integration into the Regular Navy. Temporary officers who are already in the Regular Navy will be given permanent commissions.

Approximately 4,000 officers made application for this year's program. Of the total number selected, 1,032 are in Line categories and 417 in the Staff Corps.

The numbers recommended for the Regular Navy are: Line, 356; Wave officers, Line, 39; Aviation Line, 563; Engineering Duty, 16; Engineering Duty Ordnance, 9; Aeronautical Engineering Duty, 7; Aeronautical Engineering Duty Aerology, 3; Special Duty, Communications, 7; Special Duty, Law, 7; Special Duty, Intelligence, 14; and Special Duty, Public Information, 11; Supply Corps, 209; Nurse Corps, 33; Medical Corps, 29; and Chaplain Corps, 35.

Officers who will not require an adjustment in lineal position and/or rank are indicated in the following alphabetical lists.

New At-Home OCS For Guard Non-Coms

A new program for 1956-57 officer candidate training to be conducted by National Guard units is being formulated by National Guard representatives and Infantry School officials at Ft. Benning, Ga.

The program takes the officer candidate instruction to the states where National Guard officers hold weekend training for prospective second lieutenants.

The Infantry School's Department of Non-Resident Instruction will begin supplying material for the course 1 July, according to Col. John D. Coney, USA, acting department director.

Students will attend regular meetings and summer camps as non-commissioned officers but spend about one weekend per month in 12-hour training sessions similar to those held for resident National Guard officer candidates at The Infantry School.

In most states the course, which consists of more than 200 hours of instruction, is completed in two years.

PROMOTION PLANS

The Army will release shortly the names of permanent captains selected for advancement to rank of major in the Regular Army.

On the temporary promotion front, it was questionable this week whether June would see any significant number of boosts in officer ranks.

Army officials were reviewing strength reports, and it appeared that only a limited number—if any—temporary promotions would be made. Usual practice is to tail off promotions at the end of a fiscal year.

Army Asks Two-Star Retirement Change; Abandons Plan To Reduce Mandatory Age

The Army has abandoned its 1954 attempts to reduce the mandatory retirement age for major generals in a new legislative proposal calling for a modified retention program for two-star officers.

Last year the Army asked Congress to reduce the statutory retirement age for two-star officers from 62 to 60. At the same time, authority was requested to retain an unlimited number of officers in three- and four-star rank until age 62.

The new proposal, which went to the Capitol this week, provides instead for a two-star retention program which, in effect, gives the Army authority to retire some permanent major generals at age 60 and retain others.

The measure, which was still to be introduced as THE JOURNAL went to press, permits retention on active duty until they reach the age of 62 of permanent major generals in the Regular Army who are either holding temporary appointments in grades above major general or who are serving in positions which carry rank above that of major general.

The Officer Personnel Act currently provides that permanent major generals of the Regular Army must be retired when they have completed 35 years' service, five of which was spent in permanent two-star rank, except that if they complete both requirements before age 60 they may be retained until age 60.

With the exception of five selected officers, permanent major generals must be retired at age 62 even if they haven't completed five and 35.

The Army says that present law in effect compels the retirement at 60 of officers who are promoted to the permanent rank of major general before reaching the age of 55, while those officers who are not promoted to major general until after age 55 must be retained past age 60.

"This results in a potential loss of services to the Government of many highly qualified officers," the Army states, "who by reason of ability and experience have attained the permanent grade of major general at an earlier age and who may now be serving in a higher temporary appointment (lieutenant general or general) or are serving in positions which carry rank above that of major general."

Belvoir Team Misses Record By Point

Members of the Ft. Belvoir, Va., Small Bore Rifle Team came within one point of the national record recently when they walked off with two team plaques and 26 individual awards at the Southeast Regional Championships at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Two of the three class aggregate titles were won by Engineer Center teams. In the "any sight" matches the foursome of Cpl. Jennifer Estell, Cpl. Christoph Martin, Pfc. Richard Trieste and Pvt. Fred Wessman scored 1,559 out of 1600 points with 113 perfect shots while the national record stands at a perfect 1600 and 118 marks in the X-zone.

M/Sgt. Amerigo Guy and M/Sgt. William E. Krilling teamed up with Wessman and Trieste later to take the team title in the "iron sight" matches with a score of 1,589 despite 12 inches of rain on Saturday.

M/Sgt. Krilling, who recently earned the National Rifle Association's highest award, the Distinguished Marksman Badge, copped three first places in the expert class of the individual "iron sight" matches. Pvt. Wessman captured a first place in the master class and Pfc. Trieste took a first and second in the sharpshooter class.

In the "any sight" matches The Engineer Center "Aces" chose telescopic sights to give them six first place and two second place wins. Pfc. Trieste took two firsts and a second place in the sharpshooter class along with two first places by Cpl. Estell. M/Sgt. Joseph S. Celmer captured two more firsts in the marksman class and Cpl. Martin took a second place in the expert class.

The team of CWO Myles Mulholland, Miller, Krilling and Celmer scored 1,591 out of a possible 1600 to capture 1st place in the any sight matches' sharpshooter class.

Others competing for Fort Belvoir in the matches at Benning were Capt. L. A. Lagerstrom, SFC E. V. Albetzki, Cpl. Benedict N. Cole and Pfc. Ben Billings III.

Col. Hearn To Far East

During WW II, Colonel Hearn helped make military history while commanding "Task Force Hearn" of the 11th Armored Division in Europe. His task force was officially recognized as the first U. S. Army troops to enter Austria on 1 May 1945.

“COLOR TV: WELL UNDER WAY BEFORE CHRISTMAS”

Annual meeting of RCA stockholders, May 3, 1955. Approximately 1,100 attended.

POLIO RESEARCH AIDED BY RCA ELECTRON MICROSCOPE

An RCA electron microscope, capable of magnifying up to 300,000 times, played an important role in the research that produced the new polio vaccine. It was the electron microscope that enabled man to see and to photograph the polio virus for the first time.

Developed and introduced 15 years ago by RCA, the electron microscope has become a vital tool of research. Today, more than 500 RCA electron microscopes are used around the world.

NEW RCA AIRBORNE RADAR “SEES” WEATHER MILES AWAY

Aircraft pilots can now keep informed of weather conditions as far ahead as 150 miles. This is accomplished while in flight by means of new RCA airborne radar, which enables commercial airlines to plan flights with greater precision and passenger comfort. The equipment also reveals surface features such as lakes and mountains . . . even when visibility is limited. Airborne radar is another RCA contribution to safer, more dependable commercial aviation.

NEW YORK, N.Y.—In a statement at RCA's 36th annual meeting of stockholders, Brig. General David Sarnoff, chairman of the board, emphasized the approaching maturity of color television. He said he firmly believed “Color Television will break through and be well under way before Christmas of the present year.” He stated that NBC—a service of RCA—is at the forefront of color TV programming. NBC plans for autumn 1955 include colorcasts of a new dramatic series featuring the greatest classics of all time. Color “Spectaculars” will be continued, and other major color shows are planned, including several football games.

RCA color receivers equipped with the 21-inch color tube were placed on the market in December, 1954. Results have been highly successful. Facilities have been set up for large-scale production, and the RCA television tube manufacturing plant at Lancaster, Pa., is being expanded to produce more than 30,000 tubes a month.

How many parts in an RCA color TV set?

More than 2,070 parts are used in the 21-inch RCA Victor color TV set, and 600 suppliers provide these components.

Flag Board Meets 5 July; 241 In Promotion Zone

A Navy selection board to recommend active duty Line captains for advancement to two-star rank will be convened on 5 July.

Captains eligible for consideration are those who will have three years' service in grade on 30 June 1956 computed from their date of rank. The majority of officers are from the Class of '27.

According to the 1 Jan. 55 Register there are 241 in the zone of consideration, extending from Seth A. Shepard, USN, Signal No. 534 to John T. Brown, Jr., USN, Signal No. 780.

Marines Will Retain

Winter Service Jacket

Marine Corps Headquarters reports there is a widespread misunderstanding among officers that the summer and winter service jackets will become obsolete on 30 June 56.

The mistaken notion arises from the fact that many officers are unaware that the provisions of Marine Corps Bulletin No. 9-51, stating that the jacket would cease to be worn after that date, were rescinded with the publication of Marine Corps Memo No. 121-52. The latter document preserved the jacket as part of the duty uniform and uniform of the day when the service uniform is prescribed. Headquarters points out, however, that the jacket may not be worn by officers while they are on leave or liberty.

The Honor Man in the 740-man graduating class at the U. S. Naval Academy is Ensign Thomas F. Stallman, USN.

He headed his class with a four-year average of 93.3 per cent in academics, leadership, conduct and aptitude for the service. After graduation 3 June, he was assigned to report to the destroyer USS Irwin at Newport, R. I.

Ensign Stallman entered the Academy in a Naval Reserve appointment. He was active in soccer and sailing, and was a member of the Spanish Club, the Boat Club and the Foreign Relations Club.

Ensign Stephen D. Lowe, USN, was second in the graduating class with an average of 92.5 per cent, and he will report to the USS Dickinson at Newport, R. I. He was followed by Ensign Richard B. Gilchrist, USN, who had an average of 92.3. He will report to San Diego for eight weeks prior to assignment to a Navy attack cargo ship, USS Skagit. Next was Ensign Walter W. Graham, III, USN, who was assigned for duty aboard the destroyer Massey.

Col. Cox, USMCR, Leaves For Civilian Assignment

Col. Charles H. Cox, USMCR, will leave active duty to take up civilian duties in the office of the administrative assistant to the Secretary of Navy.

Announced reductions in Marine Corps strength brought about the termination of Colonel Cox's present assignment as Deputy Chief of Staff and Director of Policy and Planning of the Atlantic Fleet Troop Training Unit at Norfolk, Va.

Colonel Cox enlisted in the Marine Corps Reserve in 1927, and served with the active forces for extended periods on three occasions since then. His latest tour of active duty began in 1949 when he was appointed Marine Corps charter member of the Reserve Forces Policy Board. After three years in that assignment, he attended the Senior Amphibious Warfare Course at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

stripers were added to the pages of the 1955 "Register." At the same time, the number of Line lieutenants dropped 717.

With the Navy critically short of doctors, it is significant to note that the only losses in the upper three ranks are to be found in the Medical Corps. As a matter of fact, with the exception of four additional captains, losses were felt in all Medical Corps ranks.

Neither the Line nor any of the Staff Corps show an increase in total officer strength.

The signal numbers in the 1 Jan. 55 Register become effective on 1 July.

The bracketed figures in the following chart show the number of officers by rank and by category who were on duty at the start of 1954.

The plus and minus figures in the Navy table show increases and decreases from calendar year 1954.

Adm. Redman Receives Degree At Nevada

RAdm. John R. Redman, USN, Commandant of the Twelfth Naval District, will receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the commencement exercises of the University of Nevada 6 June.

Admiral Redman, USNA '18, became commandant of the Twelfth Naval District, which covers Nevada, Utah and Northern California, on 8 Feb. 1954. Prior to that, he was Deputy Commander Western Sea Frontier and Deputy Commander Pacific Reserve Fleet. His brother, RAdm. Joseph Reason Redman, USN-Ret., a 1914 graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, was wartime director of Naval Communications.

ALL the services take off their hats to UNITED SERVICES

Wherever Armed Forces officers gather throughout the world, you are likely to hear praise for United Services Automobile Association. That's because USAA has offered automobile insurance at cost to officers since 1922.

Last year, for example, almost six million dollars were paid in dividends. During its 33 years of operation USAA has paid out in claims and returned to policyholders over 75 million dollars.

Since USAA insures only preferred risks—commissioned and warrant officers; sells by mail, cutting branch office and other overhead expense; and is efficiently managed by active and retired Armed Forces officers, great savings are passed onto each policyholder by this non-profit organization. In 1954, USAA policyholders in the States saved 44% of the standard manual premiums.

USAA's low-cost operations are not at the expense of prompt and efficient settlement of claims, however. Claims are settled quickly even in the most out-of-the-way places.

So whether you are serving in the United States, its possessions and territories; Canada, Cuba and the Canal Zone; Japan, the Philippines and certain U.S. military bases in the Pacific, as well as Western Continental Europe, you can enjoy the protection of a USAA policy.

Let this oldest, largest and strongest non-profit insurance organization serving the armed forces officer begin serving and saving for you. Insure with confidence. Insure today with USAA!

MATS Seven-Year Lift Equals Kentucky Population, Lt. Gen. Smith Reports

THE JOURNAL, saluting the seventh anniversary of the Military Air Transport Service, publishes the following report from Lt. Gen. Joseph Smith, USAF, MATS Commander at Andrews AFB, Md.

TRANSPORT planes of the USAF's Military Air Transport Service (MATS) have airlifted an average of 1,200 priority passengers and patients and 200 tons of cargo every day during the past seven years, Lt. Gen. Joseph Smith, USAF, MATS commander, announced 1 June on the command's seventh anniversary.

As an over-ocean military air transportation system in training for its wartime D-Day mission, MATS has recorded over 70,000 trans-ocean flights during its seven-year existence, an average of one ocean crossing every 51 minutes during the period.

More than 3,000,000 members of the Armed Forces and individuals on government service—roughly the equivalent of the population of Kentucky—were flown over the 110,000 miles of MATS global air routes during the past seven years.

During the same period, approximately 514,000 tons of defense Department cargo and mail were airlifted to U.S. military installations throughout the world.

MATS operations during recent years have been characterized by a steady expansion in equipment and units, while, at the same time, a steady decrease in the accident rate was recorded.

Emphasis on flying safety discipline throughout the command was climaxed last year when MATS attained the lowest accident rate in its history. As a result of this record, MATS was awarded the Daedalian Trophy for the year 1954.

The trophy is awarded each year by the U. S. Air Force to the major air command with the lowest accident record. MATS also won the award in 1950.

During the past several years MATS has been phasing out its obsolete World War II aircraft and replacing them with new planes designed for greater speed, range, and airlift loads.

• Two of these newer aircraft are the Lockheed R-7V (C-121) Super-Constellation and the Convair C-131A Samaritan.

• Early this year, MATS started service-testing the twin-engine, turbo-prop-powered Convair YC-131C.

• Later this year two four-engine Boeing YC-97Js and two four-engine Lockheed YC-121Fs will be phased into service test.

• Meanwhile, use of Douglas C-118 Liftmasters and C-124 Globemasters has increased.

• MATS Air Weather Service will replace its WB-29s with WB-50s in its weather reconnaissance operations, and MATS Air Rescue Service is replacing its SB-29s and SB-17s with SC-54 aircraft.

Expansion in equipment and units has resulted in a build-up of MATS U.S. terminal operations.

Douglas C-118 operations are being phased into McGuire AFB, N. J., MATS east coast passenger terminus, replacing Westover AFB, Mass.

Dover AFB, Del., is functioning as the MATS C-124 cargo airlift base for trans-Atlantic operations.

Aircraft operating through both Dover and McGuire aerial ports are supporting Thule, Greenland, and other USAF installations in the Far North and Arctic areas.

Charleston AFB, S. C., now under MATS jurisdiction, is being operated as an east coast terminus for C-54 operations.

Travis AFB, Calif., is a west coast terminus for MATS Pacific operations. Aircraft used in these operations include the Boeing C-97 Stratofreighter, Douglas C-124 Globemaster, and the R-7V Lockheed Super-Constellation.

In five years of ferrying operations, MATS has completed over 23,000 ferrying movements. These included the ferrying of fighter, bomber, transport, helicopter, amphibian and liaison type aircraft to NATO and MDAP countries in addition to the ferrying of planes to USAF installations overseas and within the U. S.

Friendly foreign countries benefit from the activities of several of MATS technical support services.

Air Rescue Service (ARS), organized to save the lives of Air Force crews forced to crash on land or sea, provides similar service to other agencies and activities. These include U.S. Army, Navy, Coast Guard and civil and military aviation of the U.S., as well as other countries. To date Air Rescue has aided over 56,000 persons.

In times of disaster, ARS-men perform humanitarian services, such as the aid they rendered to the French during last fall's floods.

Air Weather Service (AWS) provides the U.S. Air Force and Army with global meteorological service through its more than 400 weather stations located in the U.S. and 30 other countries. The service coordinates its efforts with the Navy and civilian weather agencies. Meteorological information gathered by AWS also is made available to friendly foreign nations.

During the past seven years, AWS reconnaissance planes have flown more than 1,380 flights to the North Pole area.

During the hurricane season, AWS reconnaissance missions are flown in the Caribbean area to locate and track destructive storms.

AWS, in seven years of operations in extremes of weather, has recorded one of the lowest accident records in Air Force history.

MATS Airways and Air Communications Service, completing 17 years of operation in November 1955, has recorded steady progress in expanding its global communications network and providing electronic aids to navigation for the entire Air Force. It now operates some 2,000 facilities from 250 strategically located sites.

From its headquarters at Orlando AFB, Fla., the Air Photographic and Charting Service of MATS supervises the production of Air Force film requirements. The Aeronautical Chart Center in St. Louis produces the aeronautical charts required by Air Force pilots.

MATS Flight Service has consolidated its operations and reduced personnel while continuing to provide the required flight advisory service to both military and civilian aircraft within the U.S., and supervising the evacuation of aircraft from hurricane-threatened areas in the Caribbean.

Hoover Group Views R&D. No report of the Hoover Commission merits or likely will receive more exacting attention than will be paid by the White House, Pentagon and Congress to the newly released study on "Research and Development in the Government," reported in detail in this issue. This is a report which has a direct bearing on the security of the Nation. It comes by happenstance at a time when there is cause for added concern because of accelerated Soviet weapons progress and its release coincides with wind-up action on the FY '56 budget on Capitol Hill.

Eschewing the "tremendous trifles" technique which characterized earlier Hoover Commission documents, the R&D Report presents to the Nation a disciplined and analytical discussion of a vital area of interest.

Built on the bed-rock premise that "the sureness of our defense depends upon the improvement of our weapons as well as upon their production and the abilities of our military personnel," the R&D Report affirms that "our strategy and tactics can be superior to those of potential aggressors only to the extent that research and development provide superior design of weapons."

Contrasted with the tenor of many Hoover Commission studies, with their basic objective of achieving dollar economies, the new report declares that in the R&D field "gains cannot be measured in dollars. They must be measured in terms of our defense."

This fundamental viewpoint — what's good for defense — prompts the Hoover Task Force to make a number of reorganization recommendations, aimed not so much at saving money but at improving the vast R&D program; in short, getting better weapons. Some of these proposals are certain to be adopted; others will be examined extremely carefully by Defense Secretary Wilson and his associates, with probable modifications. It is to be noted that in some areas where the Task Force is critical, steps to improve the situation have already been taken, as for example, the recent reorganization of its R&D programs in the Army and Navy.

No single proposal of the R&D Report exceeds in importance the Task Force's recommendation that the Defense Department basic research effort be "significantly increased." The present $20 million level of annual expenditure is described as "inadequate." The daring and imagination which the Task Force wants stimulated in the Services and the expressed desire for "initiation of radically new approaches to weapons systems," require vigorous R&D efforts, both at the basic and applied levels.

In this connection, it is typical of the R&D Report's integrated approach that tribute is paid to the achievements of the little-publicized but far-seeing National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics. It will be research of the NACA which will help the Armed Forces and Industry meet the future threat of enemy aeronautical weapons development, as has been the case for the past 40 years. The Hoover Task Force hails the "splendid record" of the NACA, declares "it justifies continued confidence and support" and asserts that necessary investment should be made in NACA facilities to assure aeronautical science and technology progress.

A study of the Hoover R&D Report can lead only to the conclusion, in its own words, that "there is no tribute great enough to express the Nation's obligations to its scientists, engineers and military personnel, for their contributions to our constantly-increasing productivity and the strengthening of our national defense."

"And there can be no relaxation in this effort."

Getting With It. The early session spurt of the 84th Congress in passing the much-needed Career Incentive Act has not been followed to date with comparable speed in the handling of other vital Service legislation. This is understandable to a degree, since the House Armed Services Committee has been wrapped up for weeks in careful examination of the National Reserve Plan. In the Senate, the Armed Services Committee has been looking at major defense problems, such as the relative strength of Soviet airpower, but has done relatively little so far

WAVES Problem

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

There is a minority group, the WAVE officers of the Regular Navy, which needs assistance. During the latter part of 1953 and in 1954 THE JOURNAL did much to bring into the open the stagnation of promotions for this group. As a result, after first stating that there was no need for additional WAVE officers in the rank of Commander, BuPers convened a selection board in fiscal year 1955 and authorized selection of 3 officers from a total of 17 eligibles, for a total of 7 officers (including the present Director) with that rank. Ironically, with a much smaller strength, the Women Marines have a total of 6 in the comparable rank of Lt. Col. There has been no board to select for promotion to Lcdr.

Reliable information indicates that legislation is being prepared to request a modification of Public Law 625 to permit selection of WAVE officers in larger numbers than the present restriction of 20% of the total number of line, USN. In other words, to use some of the "vacancies" in the number of Cdrs. authorized (10% of the total line) for promotions to Lcdr. True, this will relieve some of the stagnation in the rank of Lt. but does nothing for those Lcdrs. who, when they transferred to Regular Navy in 1948, were assured of opportunities for promotion. Instead, they face retirement in the rank of Lcdr. under the present policy of BuPers. Nine will reach statutory retirement age in 1957. These are women who were selected as Lcdrs. and Lts. for transfer to USN in 1948 when selection was approximately 1 in 4. Is it Navy policy to get rid of these capable officers because of their age? All of them must have given excellent service during WWII or they would not have been selected as part of the "nucleus of trained women officers on which to build in the event of another emergency."

"Sykes Regulars" Ask Aid

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

In an effort to develop esprit de corps an appeal is being made to former members of the 20th US Infantry, "Sykes' Regulars," for mementos, trophies, heraldic devices and documents of historical value pertaining to the unit. I have initiated a vigorous program of restoration and reclamation of items of this nature. Many valuable and historical items have been donated by former members of the Regiment and these have been refurbished and are now on display in the Regimental Museum. All former members are invited to visit or write to the unit for information on the historical program. The purpose of the project is to promote a vitalized interest in the Army-wide return to traditional vestment of historical data in the Regiments and to preserve the priceless relics and mementos.

This "open letter" is written in the hopes that it will reach all former Sykes' Regulars with a view toward obtaining answers as to the whereabouts of former Regimental property, trophies, etc. Such questions as to the whereabouts of the pre World War II Day Room furniture of the Companies, the location of Regimental silver and other property of Regimental nature needs answering.

It is therefore requested that former Sykes' Regulars knowing the whereabouts of Regimental property please contact me direct.

Objectivity Questioned

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Your JOURNAL, in general, very forcefully represents the best interest of Service personnel, but, in some instances, you overdo it by not being entirely objective in reporting. I find your policy on medical care for dependents objectionable on the ground that it has become completely one-sided propaganda, unjustifiably exaggerated. There are valid objections to proposed programs, and the position of the American Medical Association in opposing the draft of doctors to care for civilians certainly is well taken and on very solid grounds. Some of the recommendations of the Medical Task Force of the Hoover Commission are highly pertinent. Yet, you never mention these considerations. I believe our people, even when getting something of great value free, should also be enlightened as to what is involved. For example, do you favor complete socialization of everything eventually?

to push along the several score pieces of Service legislation.

With the arrival of Summer in the Nation's Capital, there is an inevitable outbreak of the "let's get home" heat rash in Congress. This annual contagion will be aggravated with wind-up action on the budget, particularly the defense and foreign aid provisions. Once the money bills are out of the way, it's difficult to keep the Representatives and Senators around Washington.

As described in the front-page article in this issue, numerous important bills affecting all the Services are pending. Many have a direct effect on military morale and, consequently, on Armed Forces effectiveness. The Defense Department should exert every possible influence to see that there is consideration this year of such vital matters as improved family housing, expanded medical care for dependents and more equitable survivor benefits—all of which have received endorsement from President Eisenhower.

IN THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago—A Coast Guard manned destroyer escort accepted the capitulation of the first Nazi sub to surrender in this war. While protecting a convoy off the Azores, the DDE came upon the U-873 in the early morning hours. Surfacing, the sub commander said he was surrendering in compliance with the orders of Grand Admiral Doenitz. A prize crew was left aboard to bring the captured ship into the Portsmouth Navy Yard.

50 Years Ago—The vessels of the U. S. Navy ordered to escort the body of John Paul Jones from France to the United States, in command of Rear Admiral Sigsbee, will sail from New York on June 8. The Admiral will receive the remains of the distinguished naval officer in Paris and convoy them to Annapolis, Md., where they are to be buried.

90 Years Ago—In the surrender of Kirby Smith, absolute peace has at last dawned upon the country, peace from Maine to Mexico, from Florida Keys to California.

Tradewind-SeaMaster Seaplanes Stir New Interest In Unique Navy Unit

Scheduled deliveries of the Convair 80-ton turbo-prop Tradewind seaplane and forthcoming tests of the Martin jet SeaMaster, prompt a look at the record compiled during the past 13 years by Air Transport Squadron Two of the Fleet Logistic Air Wing, Pacific, at Alameda, Calif.

Capt. W. A. Sullivan, USN, commanding officer, has prepared the following special report for THE JOURNAL:

SECOND oldest air transport squadron in the naval service and the only unit in the military establishment which utilizes four engine seaplanes as passenger carriers, VR-2 enjoys the reputation of having been in the forefront when Armed Forces aircraft blazed the transpacific trail, and of having maintained a record of safety and dependability which has yet to be matched in the annals of seaplane aviation.

Commissioned in April 1942, the squadron initially consisted of only six officers, sixty-six men, and one twin-engine land plane. One month later, however, a Sikorsky flying boat was delivered to the home base at Naval Air Station, Alameda, California, and VR-2 began hauling passengers and freight in earnest.

The summer of 1942 saw the famed PB2Y "Coronado" go into service with this organization and, as a consequence, large-scale lifts of weapons, material, and troops to the Central Pacific Theater became routine. Personnel allowances jumped, existing routes were expanded, and new ones set up to keep pace with the growing Allied advance. Squadron operations were developed all the way to Australia, and to Guam when that island was re-won two years later.

AS THE HEIGHT of the United States buildup in the Far East approached, the first giant MARS came upon the scene. Designed in 1937 by the Glenn L. Martin Co., built and tested in 1940-42, the prototype and original "old lady" of VR-2 experimentally entered the transport field in 1944. This single seaplane giant completed 78 round trips between Alameda and Honolulu and carried over three million pounds in payload to and from the islands before retiring a year and a half later.

The end of World War II saw our VR squadron, along with all military services, reduced in personnel from a peak of almost 4,000 officers and men to well under a thousand; 1946, however, marked delivery of the first of five revamped MARS and tremendously increased the efficiency and load-carrying capability of the squadron.

Still the largest operating seaplane in the world, the Philippine, Marianas, Marshall, Hawaii, and Caroline MARS went into service over a two-year period and immediately re-established seaplane flying as a transport force to be reckoned with. Operating a fleet supply service which, in 1948, was separated from the Naval Air Transport Service and organized as part of Fleet Logistic Air Wing, Pacific, the behemoths easily averaged a cabin load of eight tons in carrying high priority passengers and air freight to Hawaii.

LIFT AND ENDURANCE marks were methodically shattered and the accomplishments of this craft were only marred on one occasion, early in the operation, when the Marshall MARS caught fire and burned while on a test flight off Honolulu. Fortunately, no passengers were embarked and none of the crew was injured.

Today, having transported over 200,000 persons across the Pacific, carried over 15,000 tons of cargo, and flown the equivalent of over 20 round trips to the moon in aircraft which have lent an aura of reliability to seaplane flight, VR-2 stands on the threshold of a still expanding age in water based air transport. Convair's R3Y TRADEWIND, 80-ton turbo-prop exponent of a fast moving, high flying era, is scheduled for ultimate delivery to the command, and with even faster jet seaplane transports a possibility it is held assured that with the advent of such aircraft of advanced design, Naval Air Transport Squadron TWO will become yet more proficient in its mission of serving the fleet.

and generals to major civil responsibility" constitute a "disturbing element."

A REVIEW OF U. S. AIR STRENGTH is suggested by Rep. Clair Engle (D-Calif.). He says the current discussion over the relative strength of the USAF and the Russian AF "obscures one important fact. The Russians have upset the timetable again, and have achieved air strength faster than we expected them to." He believes "Our problem is to stay ahead of the Russians and hold the technological lead that has been ours up to now. If this means a review of our own air strength, then let us make it quickly."

THE NAVY HAS LAUNCHED a program to relocate its service schools from overcrowded fleet port areas to less congested and more centralized sites. VAdm. James L. Holloway, USN, Chief of Naval Personnel, says present efforts are concentrated on the development of the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes "as one of three service school centers." As an initial step in this direction, Admiral Holloway told the House Armed Services Committee, the Navy will move its Advanced Interior Communications Electricians School from Washington, D. C., to Great Lakes and combine it with the existing basic school there. A new, 2,000-man combined barracks and mess will be added to the Great Lakes facilities.

BIG STAKE IN RIDER ACTION

Service personnel have a big stake in the final decisions which are made by the Congress before it passes the fiscal '56 Defense Appropriations bill. The measure will soon be up for Senate consideration. As it passed the House it contained a number of provisions which:

- Restrict shipment of household goods to a maximum of 11,000 pounds for top officers.
- Prevent the Services from training legal officers.
- Boost the amount that may be spent on individual family quarters from $14,040 to $20,000.
- Curtail funds for permanent changes of station.
- Cut the number of recruiting personnel in half.
- Boost dependent schooling allowance from $235 to $240.
- Continue restrictions on commissaries and maintain the surcharge.

Here's A Quick Glance At Major Bills Pending Before Congress

Congressman Bennett for the past five years has supported legislation to correct this problem.

DEPENDENT MEDICAL CARE — A new draft of this bill, making some changes in the original measure which called for a $157 million program to give better medical care to dependents of Servicemen, has been prepared by the Pentagon and is expected to be the first order of business before the House Armed Services Committee when that group completes its work on the military construction program.

DRAFT EXTENSION & DEPENDENTS ASSISTANCE — The measure to extend the draft and dependents assistance for another four years was passed by the House early in February but no hearings have been scheduled by the Senate Armed Services Committee. It is anticipated, however, that the Committee and the Senate will approve the extension this month as present law expires on 30 June.

MILITARY APPROPRIATIONS — The $31 billion-plus appropriation to run the Defense establishment during fiscal '56 has been approved by the House and hearings are nearing completion before the Senate Appropriations Committee. Final action is expected this month.

NATIONAL RESERVE PLAN — The measure to strengthen the country's Reserve forces is hung up in the House where it ran into an anti-segregation amendment which threatens complete defeat. Unless a behind-the-scenes compromise can be worked out to remove the objectionable proviso from the bill, there is little chance it will be revived this year. President Eisenhower is urging House leaders to find a solution to the problem.

TAX CUT FOR RETIRED — Numerous bills have been introduced in both the House and Senate to remove the controversial provision in the new income tax law which prevents retired military personnel under 65 from receiving a tax credit worth as much as $240, but no Committee action has been taken and no plans have been announced.

SURVIVOR BENEFITS — A Select Committee of the House of Representatives has held extensive hearings on this problem and is meeting almost daily in an effort to draft a bill which will iron out inequities in present laws and bring all survivor benefits for military personnel (active, retired, reserve and veteran) under one comprehensive measure. The Committee expects to report a bill within the next two weeks.

OFFICER INTEGRATION — Two measures were introduced early in the session: one, to give the Navy authority for permanent integration; and the other to authorize the Army to integrate 4080 officers. It is not likely that either of these measures will be acted upon inasmuch as the Pentagon is now planning an integration measure which will embrace all of the Services.

20-YEAR RETIREMENT — Legislation which would permit retirement of almost 4,000 Navy and Marine Corps temporary officers after 20 years of active service was introduced in the House shortly after Congress convened and in the Senate in March but no hearings have been held.

DOCTOR DRAFT — Authority to continue drafting doctors, dentists and medical specialists is continued in a measure passed by the House but not yet acted upon by the Senate. Present law expires on 1 July.

ACADEMY CREDIT — Legislation introduced early in January provides that all periods of service as a cadet or midshipman at West Point, Annapolis, the USAF Academy and the USCG Academy shall be credited in computing basic pay. No hearings have been held on the measure, none are scheduled, and indications are that the bill will go over until the next session.

ROPA AMENDMENTS — This measure, providing a number of changes in the Reserve Officer Personnel Act which is due to take effect on 1 July, has been approved by the Senate but no hearings have yet been scheduled by the House Armed Services Committee.

UNIFORM CODE OF MILITARY JUSTICE — The full-scale revision of the Justice Code arrived at the Capitol only last week. The measure is complicated and chances for its passage this session are slim. It may not even be heard until the second session.

REHABILITATION PAY — Plans to provide rehabilitation pay for Reservists who are involuntarily released to inactive duty have been kicking around the Pentagon for many months but no proposal has as yet been submitted to the Congress and any move in that direction now probably would be too late for this session.

USCG FORCED ATTRITION — The measure to force attrition in the upper ranks of the Coast Guard has passed the House and is pending in the Senate where it probably will be acted upon this month.

HOME LOAN RE-FINANCING — Changes in the National Housing Act which would permit re-financing by Service personnel who purchased homes before the new military home loan plan went into effect were urged by the Defense Department as the present session of Congress got underway, but no action has been taken to date.

MANY ADDITIONAL PROPOSALS also are still pending, including measures to abolish sea duty qualifications for Navy promotions, permit refunds to personnel who had to pay part of the cost of shipping their household goods back to the U. S. from overseas stations, authorization for flight training for ROTC students, and others. Many will go begging unless the Congress works at a faster pace than most Capitol observers believe possible.

MEMO For Journal Readers

THOUGH IT'S BEEN A MONTH since there were reports (The Journal 7 May) emanating from Ft. Monroe, Va., where he is Deputy Commander of the Continental Army Command that Maj. Gen. Robert M. Montague, USA, would go to Saigon to head the MAAG in place of retiring Lt. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, USA, the Army this week had yet to make an official announcement. Last-minute assignment changes for top Army officers have been frequent of late. For example, within a week of the command change, the Army hadn't designated a new commander for the Eighth Army to replace General Lyman L. Lemitzer, USA, who moves up to succeed General Maxwell D. Taylor, USA, as Far East Commander this weekend.

THE CofS DESIGNATE, some believe, will strive to win approval from his civilian superiors for a procedure which will result in earlier announcement of general officer shifts. This is desirable, both from the viewpoint of individuals making personal plans and in strengthening prestige of key billets. The Air Force and Navy generally announce top officer changes well in advance of the actual shifts of command. Thus, Gen. Earle E. Partridge, USAF, was designated to replace Gen. Benjamin W. Chidlaw, USA, weeks before the latter's retirement as C-in-C of CONAD.

AFTER 10 YEARS, the venerable title of Marine Gunner for general duty Marine Corps warrant officers in non-specialized fields is being revived. The Gunners will be authorized to wear a distinctive collar insignia.

THE M.P. CUTBACK in the Air Force during recent years now has resulted in a shortage of skilled air police at some bases. A recent SAC survey of six bases showed an 81% deficiency in this area.

LEGISLATION APPEARS STYMIED to provide cash prizes for Servicemen who make beneficial suggestions resulting in economies. The Air Force has been pushing such a bill for several years. With prospects for passage dim, there's an increasing trend to use of non-appropriated funds for this purpose. Gen. LeMay started it at SAC. Now comes word that the idea is spreading to a number of Army and Air Force bases, with approval by the Army and AF Joint Welfare Board.

NAVY PROMOTION STUDENTS, unanimously caught out of class with the surprise appointment of RAdm. Arleigh A. Burke, USN, as CNO, will be watching results of the selection board which meets 5 July to pick new rear admirals to see if the youth trend continues. Big question will be how many captains junior to the zone of consideration are picked over their seniors. IT'S RECALLED that in 1950, then Capt. Burke was chosen from a spot 30 names below the zone. Last year, out of 145 in the official zone, 8 were selected for flag rank; there were 17 below the zone, including 2 who would still be below the '55 zone.

SECDEF WILSON'S newly named POW Commission, under chairmanship of Asst. SecDef Carter Burgess, with Gen. John E. Hull, USA-Ret., as Vice Chairman, will get first-hand advice in their task from the fliers released after long imprisonment by the Chinese Communists.

WHAT DOES IT TAKE to command an artillery battalion these fast-flying days? Lt. Col. Carl Schooley, USA, designated to head the newly activated 601st FA Missile Bn. (Corporal) at Ft. Bliss, Tex., holds an M.S. Degree in aerodynamics and jet propulsion.

WEAR-OUT PERIODS for Air Force blue wool trousers have been doubled. Since the Monetary Allowance System went into effect, the trousers are lasting 3 years and more instead of 1½. Airmen who can conserve their clothing pocket the savings.

NAVAL ACADEMY OFFICIALS were delighted this year that the top graduates in the '55 Class chose to remain in the Navy. Last year's top midshipman chose the Air Force.

REPORTED CONFLICTS between the offices of the Assistant SecDef for Research and Development and Applications Engineering (The Journal 14 May), are treated delicately in the Hoover Commission report on Research and Development. It says that "the two Assistant Secretaries have shown great objectivity and an admirable sense of duty in their attempts to establish an effective working establishment." In the next paragraph, the Report states, however, that the present set-up represents "UNSOULD ORGANIZATION." The Task Force subcommittee says there should be one Assistant Secretary for both R&D and Applications Engineering.

TOP U. S. SCIENTISTS, like Dr. Vannevar Bush of the Carnegie Institution, can be expected to use the Hoover Report findings on Research and Development to press their campaign for increased scientific representation in JCS planning. A member of the ROCKEFELLER COMMISSION on Defense Dept. Reorganization, Dr. Bush has advocated stepped-up use of scientists in strategic planning. He has complained about the WEAPONS SYSTEMS EVALUATION GROUP's lack of stature; significantly, the Hoover Report says that steps should be taken to strengthen the WSEG.

FUTURE ASSIGNMENTS for Navy Op-23 alumni will be followed with new interest in the Services—particularly the Navy. These are the 11 officers who were working with CNO-designate Arleigh A. Burke, USN, then a captain, during the Super-carrier-B36 controversy of 1949. Among the two-score Navy officers who testified before the House Armed Services Committee, THREE OF THE FOUR CAPTAINS, including the CNO, subsequently won flag rank. The others are F. M. Trapnell, who is retired with rank of VAdm.; and RAdm. J. H. Sides, USN, Director of Guided Missiles. Capt. J. S. Thach, USN, will be considered by the next flag board.

RECENT DISCUSSION concerning possibility of an enlarged Civil Defense role for the Army has prompted Army Asst. Sec'y. George H. Roderick, in charge of Civil-Military Affairs, to warn that "The Army has only enough men and just enough money to fill its primary mission of defeating our country's enemies in ground warfare." He says the Army will pitch in to help on Civil Defense activities, wherever it can, but maintains the Army "most emphatically does not have the men and the money to take a leading part in Civil Defense, nor is that the kind of work the Army is set up to do."

A SHOE SHINE ORDER has just gone out to Army troops. They are to stop using very dark brown or black shoe polish or dye on uniform boots and shoes. The Army has told commanders to frown upon footwear which is brightly polished or dyed to an "almost black" color.

COMMANDING SENIORITY in four-star ranks will be attained by the Air Force in the next several years. Once the target of widespread public ribbing because of relative lack of "years in grade," the AF has now turned the tables. Its four-star generals are accumulating considerable longevity, with no retirements scheduled before 1957, and Gens. LeMay, Norstad and Rawlings not due for retirement for another 10 years. This situation could well lead to INCREASED ASSIGNMENT of Air Force generals to joint commands.

How to ADD INCOME FOR RETIREMENT

With the purchasing power of the dollar at about half what it was ten years ago, it is reasonable to assume that the dollar you save today may have value fluctuations in the future.

Many civilian and service personnel are preparing for extra retirement income to help compensate for a possible decline in dollar purchasing power through the regular purchase of Mutual Fund shares... Funds comprised of dividend paying securities. And doing it out of current earnings.

As our company has counseled thousands of civilians and service personnel, we are well aware of the important problem of supplementing fixed-dollar savings for extra retirement income. Let us help you get started on the way to a more sound financial future. For complete information, just mail a postcard with your name and address for our free booklet, "The Modern Way to Invest."

Army Daughters Help USMA '55 Brides

THE West Point Chapter of the Daughters of the U. S. Army reports that their latest project has received "enthusiastic response" from the USMA Corps of Cadets, especially those members of the graduating class who are engaged to be married.

Feeling that there was a need for a helpful, welcoming hand to young brides-to-be of the Class of '55, the Chapter compiled a short booklet of practical hints for new service wives, entitled "And Join the Army, Too."

A copy was presented to each fiancee of a first classman. Shortly afterward, the couples were invited to small teas, divided according to the cadets' choice of branch, which were held at the homes of various Army Daughters. With the help of their husbands, the hostesses endeavored to give their guests as much information as possible about conditions to be found at their first stations and branch schools.

The booklet was edited by Mrs. H. J. Hughes, jr. (Barbara Matlack), Mrs. D. W. Hickey (Patty Snow), and Mrs. G. S. Patton (Joanne Holbrook). Illustrations were by Mrs. John Baker (Jean Gillette). Hostesses for the teas were Mesdames O. H. Borum, L. H. Cassler, R. E. Dingeman, L. G. Gamble, A. M. Haig, D. W. Hickey, H. J. Hughes, A. M. Maish, J. A. Martin, C. F. McCarty, O. M. ## INDUSTRY IN DEFENSE

Former Army Under Secy. Is Illinois Adviser

Former Under Secretary of the Army John Slezak, has been appointed Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army for the State of Illinois.

A Civilian Aide appointment is an honorary one without compensation. The Aides act both on their own initiative and at the call of the Secretary of the Army or the Army Area Commander. Their assistance may be in the form of counsel and advice to the Army and in promoting understanding between the Army and the general public.

Mr. Slezak is Chairman of the Board, Kable Printing Company, Mount Morris, Ill.; Director, Burgess-Norton Company, Geneva, Ill.; and Director, Felt and Tarrant Company, also of Geneva.

During WW I Mr. Slezak served in the Army as a private. In 1924 he accepted an appointment as Second Lieutenant, Ordnance Officers Reserve Corps. During WW II, Mr. Slezak was ordered to extended active duty as a Major and helped to organize the machine tool division of the Army-Navy Munitions Board. He concluded his active duty as a Colonel, after 47 months of active service, 18 months of which he was the District Chief of the Chicago Ordnance District.

He became Assistant Secretary of the Army in May 1953 and was sworn into office as Under Secretary of the Army on 8 Feb. 1954. He resigned as Under Secretary last January to return to private business.

Hawaii Aide

Frank E. Midkiff, trustee of the Bernice P. Bishop estate and former High Commissioner for the trust territories in the Pacific, has received a two-year appointment as the first civilian aide to the Secretary of the Army from Hawaii.

Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens made the announcement in letters to Lt. Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, USA, Pacific Army commander, and Mr. Midkiff.

Army Adopts New Flight Manual For All Pilots

Starting 1 July, Army pilots will use a new Aviation Flight Manual instead of the nine separate publications which they currently utilize.

The single volume, published by the Jeppesen Co. of Denver, Colo., contains detailed information on more than 1360 civil and military airports in the United States. In commercial aviation, the book is known as the Airway Manual, but it is officially designated as TM-11-2557.

Volume I of the manual will be distributed to all Army aviators in this country, but volumes II and III will be given only to instrument-qualified pilots. Army National Guard fliers are included in the distribution plan.

The Army tested the manual for six months before finally deciding to adopt it. The manual was used during 120 hours of instrument and 250 hours of visual flying by Signal Corps personnel at the Army Electronic Proving Ground.

The distribution of the manual will be handled by the Army Flight Information Division of the Army Signal Corps under the direction of Capt. D. P. Dickinson. The first set of the manuals was received by Brig. Gen. Hamilton Howze, USA, Chief of the Army Aviation Division, Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff.

Lt. Col. Fahey Cited

A Third Army Certificate of Achievement was presented recently to Lt. Col. Paul V. Fahey, USA, Executive Officer at Third Division Artillery headquarters, Ft. Benning, Ga., for his work in developing and publishing handbook on Fire Support Coordination.

The booklet was prepared as a guide for use in connection with the maneuver phase of Exercise "Follow Me" while Colonel Fahey was serving as operations officer at Hqs. and Hqs. Btry., Division Artillery, from 5 Oct. 1954 to 1 Feb. 1955.

Work Begins On 500-Bed Hospital At Ft. Bragg

Construction has begun on an $8,800,000 Army hospital at Ft. Bragg, N. C., scheduled for completion in about 2½ years.

Work on the 500-bed hospital began after ground-breaking ceremonies 25 May at which Maj. Gen. George E. Armstrong, MC, USA, Surgeon General of the Army, turned the first spade of earth.

The new hospital will be nine stories in height in its main sections, with wings of four stories rising one story above ground level.

Former Marine Heads Chamber Defense Dept.

Establishment of a National Defense Department of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce with Theron J. Rice as Manager is announced by Arch N. Booth, Executive Vice President.

The newly-formed department is a move to expand and improve the service of the Chamber to its members and the business community generally in the field of national defense.

"The department, and the Chamber's National Defense Committee, will strive to identify and study major national security problems and provide enlightened thinking and leadership for the business community in seeking solutions to those problems," the Chamber said.

Mr. Rice was promoted from Assistant Manager of the Manufacture Department, a position he had held since December 1953. He will continue as Secretary of the National Defense Committee. The committee chairman is A. Y. Milam of Jacksonville, Fla., a Chamber director.

Prior to joining the Chamber staff in March, 1951, as associate editor of the Legislative Department publication, Legislative Daily, Mr. Rice was managing editor of Armed Force Magazine. The latter position afforded him intimate knowledge of the activities of the Defense Department, and Congressional committees dealing with the armed services and defense appropriations.

During WW II, he served nearly three years as a U. S. Marine Corps combat correspondent. He enlisted in the service while a member of the editorial staff of the Washington Evening Star.

He attended George Washington University, Washington, D. C., and Harrisonburg, Va., High School.

Mr. Rice is married and is the father of a five-year-old son.

Defense Contracts

A $2,833,992 contract for improvements in the SKYSWEEPER electronic control system has been awarded AC Spark Plug Division of General Motors.

TEMCO Aircraft Corporation's prime overhaul contract to provide progressive heavy maintenance for SUPER CONSTELLATIONS has been extended by the Navy.

A subcontract to build large quantities of three separate assemblies for the North American F-100D SUPER SABRE has been awarded TEMCO Aircraft Corporation. Items included in the subcontract, which is valued in excess of $1-million, include wing-tip panels, inboard and outboard ailerons, and flaps.

Thomas E. Hughes Heads Cleveland Navy League

Mr. Thomas E. Hughes, General Manager, Cleveland Diesel Engine Division, General Motors Corp., Cleveland, Ohio, has been elected to the State Presidency of the Navy League of the United States.

At the same time, Mr. Hughes was appointed Chairman of the Cleveland Advisory Council on Naval Affairs by RADM. E. H. vonHeimburg, USN, Commandant, Fourth Naval District.

Hoover Group Seeks R&D Changes

Task Force recommended:

- The Pentagon should study the possibility of eliminating one Assistant Secretary of Defense and placing both Applications Engineering and Research and Development under one official.

- Assistant Secretaries for R&D should be created "in each of the three military departments."

- The Secretary of Defense should "wisely and fearlessly" withhold R&D funds to prevent unwarranted duplication, and to "promote integration" of R&D programs in the Army, Navy and AF.

- A standing committee of outstanding basic and applied scientists should be appointed by the Defense Secretary to periodically canvass the needs and opportunities presented by new scientific knowledge for radically new weapons systems.

- The Pentagon should review and assess the operations and contributions of all of its committees and consultants.

- More R&D contracts should be turned over to private industry.

The Task Force was critical of the Army and Navy R&D programs but praised the Air Force and urged that "an adequate permanent headquarters building with appropriate facilities be promptly provided" for the Air Force ARDC.

The traditional organizations for Research and Development of the Army and Navy are not well suited to the needs of modern weaponry development, the group said. Compartmentalization of weaponry development between a number of independent technical services in the Army and technical bureaus in the Navy "makes effectiveness and efficiency in the operations of today most difficult."

Elimination of these services and bureaus would "present grave problems" the Task Force states, and "cannot be afforded in these critical times." The report points out that both the Army and Navy are aware of "the deficiencies" and have taken steps to minimize them.

The Army plan to reorganize its R&D program is a major improvement, the group said. It viewed the Navy plan, however, "as an inadequate organizational step toward effective coordination, but believes there is value in the basic plan, even though it is still inadequate."

Col. Colwell Res. Command Chief For 1st Armored

Col. Robert H. Colwell, USA, is the new head of Reserve Command of the First Armored Division at Ft. Hood, Tex.

He succeeds Col. Loveaire A. Hedges, USA, assigned with the office of the commanding general.

Colonel Colwell and his wife, Charlotte, are living in Fort Hood's McNair Village. They have a daughter, Sara Jane.

Col. Greening Heads Wisconsin ROA Units

Col. Norman C. Greening, USAFRC, squadron and flight commander of Tenth Air Force's 9670th Air Reserve Squadron at Kenosha, Wis., for the last six years, was elected Wisconsin Reserve Officers Association president at its recent annual convention in Madison.

A World War II veteran with 23 years of active and Reserve service, he is a past president of Kenosha's Chamber of Commerce.

Defense Industry Names

WILLIAM D. PERREAULT, former managing editor of American Aviation magazine, has been appointed military sales representative of the Georgia Division of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation.

THREE OFFICIALS of Northrop Aircraft, Inc., have been named to new posts. John R. Alison, former administrative vice-president, was appointed vice-president in charge of customer relations. Robert R. Miller, former vice-president and executive assistant to the president, was named administrative vice-president to replace Mr. Alison. Gil Nettleton, formerly director of military relations, was named assistant to the president.

In contrast with the Army and Navy compartmentalized programs, the Task Force said, the Air Force "has a well integrated organizational structure for research and development." The Air Research and Development Command "is a framework well suited to the needs of modern weaponry research and development."

The Air RDC at Baltimore has outgrown the facilities there and is operating under considerable handicap, the Task Force said. It "urges that an adequate permanent headquarters building with appropriate facilities be promptly provided."

The Task Force reported that the Services are "not sufficiently daring and imaginative in their approach to radically new weapons and weapons systems." Neither have the three Services "distinguished themselves in the initiation of radically new approaches to weapons systems."

Officers assigned to the R&D programs, the group said, are well qualified but "there are not a sufficient number of the younger officers in the training programs to provide for the increasing demands for technical officers."

Each of the Services is urged to "make a realistic examination of their growing needs for technical officers" and if need be, as the Task Force "expects," they should "expand their programs to provide generously for an expanding number of officers trained in research and development."

The Task Force said the Services "are not making the best use of their officers trained in research and development. The constant rotation of officers between research and operating command positions ignores the urgent need for increased specialization."

The group said "Even in areas where officers are rotated only through technical assignments they are left on a particular assignment for too short a period. The officer's professional development is retarded and the jobs to which he is assigned suffer from this 'rapid rotation.' The development of a sufficiently competent corps of specialists in research and development will not be realized unless the length of the assignment to a particular post is materially increased."

Artillery Instructors Meet At Ft. Sill

Artillery instructors from posts all over the country were at Ft. Sill, Okla., last week for a five-day Artillery Instructors Conference.

The 30 Artillery instructors, who range in rank from captain to colonel, reviewed latest developments in Artillery weapons and tactics.

The conference was conducted under the direction of Lt. Col. R. G. Banks, USA, Director of Instruction, The Artillery and Guided Missile School.

Thirteenth AF Transferred From FEAFF To Pacific AF

General Nathan Twining, USAF, Chief of Staff, has announced that command of the Thirteenth Air Force has been passed from Far East Air Forces to Pacific Air Force. This follows the reestablishment last year of a U. S. Air Force component to operate Air Force units in Admiral Felix Stump's Pacific Command.

At the same time, the Thirteenth Air Force's responsibilities, until now largely in the Philippine Islands, will be expanded to include Air Force responsibility in the Formosa area.

Brig. Gen. William L. Lee, USAF, Commander of the Thirteenth Air Force, will continue to maintain control of Air Force activities in the Philippine Islands and will henceforth report to Maj. Gen. Sory Smith, USAF, Commander of the Pacific Air Force, in Hawaii.
